

FOUNDATION SKILLS: COMMUNICATION

Communication courses will foster students' ability to create effective and ethical oral communication

Learning Outcome	Exceeds Expectations (3)	Meets Expectations (2)	Fails to Meet Expectations (1 or 0)
Students will demonstrate communication competence in a variety of contexts.	The student demonstrates an exceptional understanding of the role of verbal and nonverbal communication.	The student demonstrates an awareness of the role of verbal and nonverbal communication.	The student lacks awareness of and ability to understand verbal and nonverbal communication, as well as lacks the ability to implement good communication practices.
Student will demonstrate understanding of how communicative interactions shape our identities and interactions.	The student demonstrates an exceptional understanding of how communicative interactions shape our identities and interactions.	The student demonstrates an awareness of how communicative interactions shape our identities and interactions.	The student lacks awareness of and ability to understand how communicative interactions shape our identities and interactions.
Students will identify and evaluate the role of ethics in communication.	The student demonstrates an exceptional understanding of ethical communication. This includes understanding dialogical communication, with particular emphasis on using inclusive, appropriate language.	This student demonstrates and awareness of communication ethics.	The student lacks an awareness of and the ability to understand ethical communication. This student uses exclusive or inappropriate language.
Students will show abilities to think critically and creatively.	This student demonstrates an awareness to think critically and creatively, as well as they ability to do so.	This student demonstrates and awareness to think critically and creatively.	This student lacks the ability and awareness to think critically and creatively.
Students will recognize communication practices that promote local and global civic engagement.	This student demonstrates an awareness of the role of communication practices when promoting local and global civic engagement.	This student demonstrates an awareness of the role of communication practices when promoting local and global civic engagement.	This student fails to see the connection between communication and local and global civic engagement.

